How do I export book records from Google Books?

Not as of June 2014.

However, there are numerous medical Libraries you can search from EndNote to locate the record of a particular book. Here’s how:

1. Open your EndNote library.
2. On the Left menu bar under Online Search click on “More” to display the full list of connection files to select from a wide variety of Library catalogues.
3. Highlight and “Choose” a Library to search (it will be added to your list of Online Search resources)

4. Use the search pane at the top of the screen to search the catalogue for the book title in your chosen online Library. Once your book record has been found, move it to a group of your choice.

Some suggested medical Libraries:

Hong Kong University of Science and Technology

Library of Congress

University of California – Berkeley

University College of London