How do I insert multiple references from EndNote in the same location in my Word document?

There are occasions you want multiple in-text citations in one location so they appear like this using the output style APA 6th edition:

“The aim of the Research Write project is to increase awareness in clinical staff in a Victorian public healthcare provider on the skills, methods, and tools used for writing about health research. An increase in awareness of Library services has been attributed to an increase in the quality and quantity of research publications from the parent organisation (O’Brien, Balmer, & Maggio, 2017; Richardson, Nolan-Brown, Loria, & Bradbury, 2012)”

1. Insert one in-text citation by clicking on the Insert Citation Icon in Word’s EndNote sub-menu, searching for the citation and then inserting it in the document.

2. To add another citation to the existing one, highlight all the already inserted in-text citation in the document, click on the Insert Citation icon and search, select and insert the next citation.

The references will appear in the bibliography as required by the output style.
