How do I export results from a CINAHL search alert into EndNote?

When a search alert is created in CINAHL, you will receive emails of new records that match your search criteria. These records are exportable to EndNote.

1. view the email with your search alert results from CINAHL
2. click on the title of the article you want to keep, this will take you back to the record in CINAHL
3. in CINAHL click on the word Export which appears on the right of the screen
4. EndNote will open and the record will go into the last used Library
5. Repeat the process by clicking on the next title you want to keep until all records are in your EndNote Library